The Original Natursutten Soothers

When my children were babies, I came across many people who had their opinion on dummies or soothers. Many whom were quite vocal about this issue. I for one have always been pro dummies for a number of reasons.

- They have settled our children on nights where sleep deprivation has kicked in and any chance of some more sleep is a bonus AND
- When our children have been teething, it seemed to have dulled their gum pain.

So far I haven't had any problem taking the dummy/soother away at the appropriate time, however I still have a two year old who requests a "juicy one" (I.E One that has not been chewed and deflated) when she heads to bed. She loves this external sleeping aid and we will wait and see how she reacts when we give "nums" to Santa.

If you use a dummy for your little one, you may be interested to know that the Original, natural rubber soother, 'Natursutten' is back on Australian shores thanks to the one-stop organic baby shop, ECO CHILD.

The completely natural soothers are made with absolutely no BPA, phthalates, or chemical softeners and are Australian mandatory compliance certification passed, making the Natursutten soothers the best choice for your bub.

A practical and safe Danish design, each soother is made in Italy as one hygienic piece. With no cracks, joins or holes, the Natursutten single piece design ensures nasty bacteria cannot breed and greatly reduces the risk of choking.

The soothers are available in Round or Orthodontic styles (and in different sizes) and the shield has been designed larger to prevent babies squeezing into their mouths. Nothing has been overlooked when it comes to your child's safety.

Beautifully packaged in FS Certified recycled card with environmentally friendly inks, the Natursutten soothers are biodegradable for a complete eco conscience purchase. The soothers are currently priced at RRP $9.95 and are available from ECO CHILD.
